

Medical Humanities

December 2001 Volume 27 Number 2

Editorial: Medical progress, reason and the imagination David Greaves, Martyn Evans	57
Science and the imagination in the age of reason Robin Downie	58
'A fragment of the explanation': the use and abuse of words Iona Heath	64
Opening the word hoard: Four poems and two stories Edited by Gillie Bolton	70
Clinical craft: a lesson from Liverpool D M Gore	74
A medical perspective on the adventures of Sherlock Homes James Reed	76
Some medical syndromes encountered in nineteenth-century French literature Margaret M Platts	82
Editorial: Metaphors for medicine: revealing reflections or just popular parodies Deborah Kirklín	89
Becoming a doctor Sarah Elise Finlay and Monica Fawzy	90
'Developing the medical humanities' – report of a research colloquium, and collected abstracts of papers Martyn Evans and David Greaves	93
From Kafka to Casualty: doctors and medicine in popular culture and the arts – a special studies module Brian Glasser Contributing authors: Michael Clark, Trisha Greenhalgh, Christine Harmar-Brown, Joan Leach, Michael Modell, John Salinsky	99
Editorial: The use and abuse of language in science Alan O'Rourke	102
Proposal for an academic Association for Medical Humanities Robert Arnott, Gillie Bolton, Martyn Evans, Ilora Finlay, Jane Macnaughton, Richard Meakin, William Reid	104
Letters	106
Book reviews	107

27 | 2
Vol 27 No 2 Pages 57-110
JOURNAL OF MEDICAL ETHICS MEDICAL HUMANITIES EDITION
December 2001

December 2001

Volume 27 Number 2

Medical HUMANITIES

Edition of the Journal of Medical Ethics

www.medicalhumanities.com

culture ARTS/SCIENCE
PHILOSOPHY
Medicine gaze human
Telos NARRATIVE

BMJ
Publishing
Group

Med Humanities: first published as on 1 December 2001. Downloaded from <http://mh.bmj.com/> on October 4, 2024 by guest. Protected by copyright.