

Medical Humanities

Edition of the Journal of Medical Ethics

Editorial

- 57 Lessons in pity and caring from Dickens and Melville D Kirklin

Original articles

- 59 The limits of pity in Bartleby and Moby Dick L Rosenblatt
- 64 Dickens' characters on the couch: an example of teaching psychiatry using literature B C Douglas
- 70 Two Georgian fathers: diverse in experience, united in grief R M James, A N Williams
- 80 Brainwashing: the power of the psychiatrist portrayed in 1960s visual media P Dakin
- 84 A portrait of a female body: Rubens and Helena's legs P Abastado, D Chemla

-
- 88 Literary appreciation for medical students at International Medical University, Kuala Lumpur: the learner's experience S S DMani
- 93 Medical paternalism in House M.D. M R Wicclair
- 100 "Sharing the impact of the disease": a workshop on suffering for medical students W Lewis, K Hawthorne
- 107 Rethinking the placebo effect P Louhiala, R Puustinen
- 110 Mental health in an age of celebrity: the courage to care P Barker, P Buchanan-Barker

PostScript

- 115 Art review
- 116 Book reviews
- 118 Music review
- 120 Letters to the editor

