

Cover image: The London Blitz, 1940. 1940s vintage exhibition print of Cecil Beaton photograph MH 26395. Eileen Dunne, aged three, sits in bed with her doll at Great Ormond Street Hospital for Sick Children, after being injured during an air raid on London in September 1940. Source: This photograph was scanned and released by the Imperial War Museum on the IWM Non Commercial Licence. The work was created by Cecil Beaton during his service for the Ministry of Information during the Second World War as an official photographer of the Home Front.

Hannah Simpson, Patrick Burley and Megan Girdwood are the guest editors of this Medical Humanities – The Human Bodies of World War II: Beyond the Battlefield issue.

Contents

Editorial

- 93  World War II: bodies beyond the battlefield
H Simpson, M Girdwood

Original research

- 96  'Between-time stories': waiting, war and the temporalities of care L Salisbury

- 107 'Never forget': fictionalising the Holocaust survivor with dementia S Vice

- 115  Special operations: a hidden chapter in the histories of facial surgery and human enhancement R Bailey

- 124  'A disastrous blow': psychiatric risk, social indicators and medical authority in abortion reform in post-war Britain S Crook

- 135 The case of Dr Masajiro Miyazaki: Japanese-Canadian healthcare in World War II
L B Johnson

June 2020 Volume 46 Issue 2

- 144 '[Her] hostess ... is anxious to have her back when she is cured': The impact of the evacuation of children on wartime local services, England, 1939–1945 J Taylor

Commentaries

- 154  Commentary: Serving the nation, serving the people: echoes of war in the early NHS
R Bivins

- 157 'A higher form of listening': a commentary on 'the human bodies of World War II: beyond the battlefield' E Mayhew

Electronic pages

- e1 Writing autohistoria-teoría: agency and illness in German life narratives by Evelyne Leandro and Mely Kiyak K Herges

- e2 Towards a translational medical humanities: introducing the cultural crossings of care
E Engebretsen, G Fraas Henrichsen, J Odemark

 This article has been chosen by the Editor to be of special interest or importance and is freely available online.

 This article has been made freely available Online under the BMJ Journals open access scheme. See <http://authors.bmj.com/open-access/>

 This journal is a member of and subscribes to the principles of the Committee on Publication Ethics
Member since 2008 <http://publicationethics.org/>
JM00013

 recycle
When you have finished with this please recycle it