

Cover image: Microcentrifuge tubes in a rack. Some of them are DNA samples while the remainder of them are primers to be used in polymerase chain reaction, or PCR, a laboratory technique used to make multiple copies of a segment of DNA.

Credit: National Cancer Institute. Free to use under the Unsplash License.

Contents

Editorial

- 333 Ethics and medical specimens B Schillace

Current controversy

- 334 Human-centred design, disability and bioethics
M Wolf-Meyer

Original research

- 340 The use of an object: exploring physician burnout through object relations theory J Winning

 OPEN ACCESS

- 347 Reversing the medical humanities
H Scott-Fordsmand

- 361 'Why They Laugh At Us?': the functions and ethics of humour in Singaporean theatrical depictions of stigmatised illness S Hyder

- 370 Understanding how college students characterise and cope with chronic pain: a thematic analysis of expressive writing samples
K Root, S Nosek

- 378 Cracking open the eristic rhetoric of contralateral prophylactic mastectomy research or why surgeons should not be so certain about this controversial breast cancer treatment K Pender

- 390 Erosion of the 'ethical' doctor-patient relationship and the rise of physician burn-out A Messinger, S Das

- 396 "I am not alone with tears": embodying stigma and longing among youth living with perinatally acquired HIV in Tanzania through a collaborative arts-based approach K R J Hosaka, D Mandewo, B T Mmbaga, H Ngowi, D E Dow, K A Stewart, on behalf of the Sanaa ya Vijana Youth Collaborative

September 2023 Volume 49 Issue 3

- 407 Meeting up in broken word/times: communication, temporality and pace in neuromixed writing
H Bertilsdotter Rosqvist, E Hjorth, A Nygren

- 416 Empirical Bioethics and the Health 'Brain-Drain': a qualitative study of the experiential and ethical landscape of compulsory community service for a group of South African doctors C V Gardiner

- 427 Metaphors and decision making in parental blogs about their children with life-limiting diseases: who's afraid of the war metaphor?
V Neefjes

- 436 Integrating person-centred care and social justice: a model for practice with larger-bodied patients D Kanagasingham, L Hurd, M Norman

- 447 Performing HeLa: theatrical bodies and living remains E Cox

- 457 Medical specimens and the erasure of racial violence: the case of Harriet Cole S C Lawrence, S E Lederer

- 468 John Buchan's race through life, chased by his only foe—illness J F Durey

- 479 'Freudism' and modernity: transcultural impact of psychoanalysis in the modern Turkish novel
B Alkan

- 487 The language of vaccination campaigns during COVID-19 S Vilar-Lluch, E McClaughlin, D Knight, S Adolphs, E Nichele

Review essay

- 497 Narrative and its discontents A Morrison

Correction

- 500 Correction: Health, policy and emotion

This article has been chosen by the Editor to be of special interest or importance and is freely available online.

This article has been made freely available Online under the BMJ Journals open access Scheme. See <http://authors.bmj.com/open-access/>

This journal is a member of and subscribes to the principles of the Committee on Publication Ethics <http://publicationethics.org/>

When you have finished with this please recycle it